

Ketamine Assisted Psychotherapy (KAP)-Experiential Training for Providers

Across the country compelling evidence is being produced from leading universities such as Johns Hopkins on the use of psychedelic medicines such as psilocybin, MDMA, and ketamine to treat mental health conditions that do not respond to traditional pharmaceuticals. In a breakthrough designation by the FDA, Spravato became the first legal psychedelic medicine available to the U.S. public in 2019 using Ketamine in an intranasal formulation. Ketamine is being hailed as the most significant development in psychiatry since the advent of SSRIs. In research it's been shown to consistently and rapidly reverse suicidality, and it is an effective treatment for various mental health conditions including: major depression, anxiety, PTSD, OCD, and bipolar disorder.

Combined with psychotherapy the efficacy of ketamine is significantly enhanced. Ketamine Assisted Psychotherapy (KAP) utilizes key principles of proper screening, preparation, setting, dosage, and integration to optimize safe and efficient results.

We believe the best way to learn and properly facilitate this modality to patients is to first experience it yourself; there is no replacement for direct experience.

To meet the demand in the Seattle area for training on this effective modality, AIMS institute is offering a 10-hr certificate in experiential KAP training specifically tailored for licensed providers.
